NEW YORK, Aug. 10, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Atomi, Inc.'s (www.atominy.com) (<http://www.atominy.com/>) newly released Charge Station universal charging dock continues to rack up more and more positive reviews. The Charge Station, which sports two 2.1 amps outputs and one 1 amp output, a weighted base, and illuminated dividers, was recently featured as part of News Watch Television, a trusted source for technology reviews that airs nationally on the History Channel and the ION Network.

"We are thrilled that the Charge Station is getting the attention it deserves," said Steve Beda, Vice President of Atomi. "With its three USB ports, five-foot cord, and illuminated dividers, the Charge Station is a game-changer in the world of charging stations."

With more and more families owning multiple Internet connected devices, the Atomi Charge Station offers a stylish answer to how to keep all of these smartphones, tablets, e-readers, gaming devices, and more, powered up.

Made of high-quality ABS plastic, the Charge Station can power up to three USB powered devices simultaneously at full power, while displaying each device neatly in an individual divider on a space-conscious weighted base that fits easily on any nightstand, desk, or table. Add in the five-foot cord and charging can occur from almost anywhere. The dividers themselves light up for a sleek effect that also allows for each device to be found easily, day or night.

The Atomi Charge Station is now available at Bed Bath & Beyond.
